Common Patterns: Customer Assistants, Employee Productivity, and Creative Scale

1) Conversational Customer Agents

Most visible entry point across sectors: Mercedes-Benz, GM OnStar, VW, LUXGEN, Commerzbank, and Mercari apply virtual assistants to improve responsiveness and reduce service burden.

2) Employee Productivity Agents

Broadest category: Uber, Rivian, Geotab, and others use Gemini in Workspace/NotebookLM for summarization, research acceleration, legal review, and contextual support.

3) Creative & Scale Agents

Fastest-growing frontier: Virgin Voyages (hyper-personalized campaigns via Veo), Figma (brand-approved assets in seconds), and PODS (real-time adaptive outdoor creative).

Takeaways: Where to Start and What to Expect from Enterprise Gen AI

- 1. Gen AI is production-ready across major industries, with use cases spanning customer experience, operations, software, and data.
- 2. Customer and employee agents are the dominant entry points and lowest-friction paths to enterprise value.
- 3. Measurable outcomes are already documented: 500% ROI, 30% workload reduction, and 10,000+ annual hours saved.
- 4. Creative and code-centric agents are scaling quickly, signaling second-wave competitive differentiation.
- 5. With 400 new entries added in the latest update, adoption momentum is accelerating; early movers gain compounding capability and data advantages.
